The Beauty of Black Music

Whether grooving to the sounds of industry greats or vibing to the voices of up-and-coming artists, Black Music has made its mark around the world, boasting fans of countless cultures on every continent. Recognized nearly half a century ago by President Jimmy Carter, June has served as National Black Music Appreciation Month since 1979.

Today, vocalists, composers, producers and musicians of every kind are creating richer blends of genre-bending music while making it a habit to honor icons from seasons past. The result entails wider audiences for classic stars, newly introduced to their music coupled with a renewed appreciation for music that is as timeless as its icons. Adding to its richness are the fearless trendsetters who employ technology in ways that were once unimaginable, and fans are clamoring for more.

Black Music is known for its inclusion of sights and sounds heavily laden with emotions across the spectrum of what it is to be human. Boasting unconditional love in popular ballads to unfeigned faithfulness in gospel greats – June is the perfect time to explore all that it has to offer. It's Black Music Appreciation Month, and that's something to sing about!

Satisfying Soul Food

From perfectly smothered pork chops and passion-filled collard greens to simply satisfying corn bread and sweet potato pie, soul food has been stirring hearts for hundreds of years, steeped in the history of African Americans everywhere. As of 2007, culinary historians in the City of Chicago sponsored the first National Soul Food in June over a decade ago. Today, enthusiasts can not only enjoy the delicacies unique to this culture, but explore the rich stories that make every meal so meaningful.

Though soul food had humble beginnings where gifted hands created masterpieces from the least desired cuts of meat and savory sides, culinary giants continue to elevate it as timeless classics are remembered and reinvented, taking center stage. Not only is there an uptick in soul food's popularity across ethnicities, but it is broadening the palates of foodies everywhere, from traditionalists to plant-based vegans.

Culinary artists both formally trained and homegrown recognize that soul food has a sacred place in the fabric of America. Introducing new foods and methods of preparation deeply rooted in African heritage blended with cross-cultural nuances, soul food curators contend this celebrated cuisine is known for evoking heartfelt love.

Don't miss your opportunity to put your personal spin on the dishes you love most this June as we explore the possibilities of sumptuous soul food – and remember to serve it with the significance of the heartfelt stories we know best. It's certainly something to talk about! Happy National Soul Food Month.

Let's Celebrate Dr. D.Z. Cofield's 28th Anniversary

As we commemorate our church's 150th Sesquicentennial Anniversary, the Good Hope Missionary Baptist Church Family is overwhelmed with love and gratitude as we celebrate Dr. D. Z. Cofield's 28th year as our Pastor! Your contributions to our church, and your outreach to the local and global community are unmatched. We thank God for your visionary leadership and your Bible-based teaching and preaching. You hold yourself and the members of the Good Hope Family to using God's Word as our standard as we live in fellowship everyday, and we thank you.

As the Pastor of a multigenerational church, we appreciate your commitment to ensuring that there are ministries to support our children, youth, seniors and super seniors. Thank you for your wise council and spiritual guidance to members of the church, and for the respect you always show to each of us.

We love the fact that you are a lifelong learner because it inspires the church family to continually learn as we grow as Christ followers. Thank you for being a great example of how members of the church should serve each other.

Thank you for being a wonderful Pastor. We are deeply grateful for your hard work and sacrifice. You are a blessing to everyone, and we pray that you enjoy your 28th Anniversary, knowing you are loved and respected and are making a tremendous positive difference in the lives of others.

Love to Pastor

Celebrating Juneteenth

June 17th, 2022, marks the one-year anniversary of Juneteenth becoming a federally recognized holiday. Its origins date back to June 19th, 1865, when the last slaves in America were freed in Galveston, Texas, nearly two and a half years after President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation in January of 1863.

Today, we celebrate in a variety of ways, but here are five that we highly recommend as we take advantage of the opportunity to remember this occasion as a nation!

01 Experience musical performances designed to honor the holiday and those impacted by the great news.

02 Prepare traditional soul-food cuisine, and celebrate with a family picnic or community cookout.

03 Hold a Black History Readathon, and promote literacy while immersing readers in rich stories.

04 Participate in a local Juneteenth celebration, whether park or parade!

05 Encourage children and adults to create original art in the spirit of the Juneteenth holiday.

It's no secret that racial relations can often be a topic laden with tension. There have been strides in our country's progression, but there is plenty of work ahead. Let's take this opportunity as we celebrate Juneteenth to educate, encourage and empower. There's no time like the present. Happy Juneteenth!

The Greatest Father of All

Who would offer their only Son for the benefit of the undeserving?
When it comes to being
an authentic role model,
You are the quintessential version.

Your love is great. Kindness, innate and your Your patience is unrivaled.
Your gift of the ultimate sacrifice
is the key to our survival.

We fail because we're frail, and
we fall short time and again;
But, you're never too far to hear our heart.
You continue to forgive our sin.

None can compare to the wisdom you share.
In You, we can truly stand tall.
Celebrating this day, we can't help but say,
You're the greatest Father of all.

The greatest Father of all.

we are HOPE
